How the stainless steel portrait is to be placed at the burial space?

One or two portraits may appear ...

Below the family name 1 inch from the edge (side) of the cemetery marker. (The entire oval must rest on the front of the marker surface) and cannot cover a design on the marker. OR Above and to the left or right side (never centered) of the titled surname.

If approved these portrait should not exceed the 3 1/2" x 4 1/4" maximum.

Additional portraits may appear ...

When the deceased's inscription is one line (given name and dates):

The most popular placement will be to the left – at the beginning of the deceased's Date (Year) of birth. Due to design placing it to the right or above is also permitted.

When the deceased's inscription is on two lines (given name then dates):

The proper placement will be centered between the dates.

BETWEEN the names placement is reserved for a double image portrait only. (No additional placement is permitted). This placement where inspected and determined on markers will require inspection and may prohibit future placement of inscriptions, epitaphs, or term of endearment governed by various cemetery marker regulations.

A special affidavit may be required in the event the portrait placement encroaches on future inscription space or future epitaph or term of endearment reserved space. The cemetery will not permit the refacing or removal of a previous design, inscription, epitaph, or term of endearment to accommodate a portrait.

Notice:

Failure to file application, Improper adhesion, Improper placement, Improper fabrication of materials, Improper size, Improper attire, improper affixing or attaching items to a portrait will warrant the immediate removal of the portrait or prohibit of the marker being set in the cemetery.

Determining the Size of the Stainless Steel Portrait from Catholic Cemeteries?

3 1/4" x 4 1/4" is the maximum size permitted on a marker. When this portrait is placed near the family name as described above.

1.18" x 1.57" is the smaller size recommended for markers where portrait placement other than the above is selected.

NOTE: Although various sizes may be permitted with approval, these two sizes permit a portrait for most cemetery markers and for most burials within the lot.

There may be times where a choice must be made to replace the marker in order to accommodate the portraits.

Some other concerns?

Portraits must be oval and made of stainless steel and must be installed flush to the memorial with 3M VHB Two sided Tape (or its industry acceptable equivalent).

Covers will be required for most flush memorial placements.

Frames, other types of covers, and borders for the portrait are prohibited.

Additional Documentation Required?

A stainless steel portrait of a living person is permitted on the marker when both designation affidavit and pre-need inscription application work has been filed and approved by cemetery authorities.

A stainless steel portrait of a person buried elsewhere is not permitted on the marker.
